1st Cooking School Class Attracts 900

Mrs. Campbell Greeted by Round of Applause as Work Begins.

Approximately 900 women from Marion and surrounding towns and cities welcomed Mrs. Ruth Campbell with a hearty and rousing round of applause when she walked into her temporary kitchen on the stage in The Star auditorium yesterday afternoon.

The occasion marked the opening of the ninth annual cooking school to be sponsored by The Marion Star and Marion merchants, and brought Mrs. Campbell to Marion for her second consecutive school. Home economics pupils from Pleasant Township Centralized schools occupied a section for the session.

There is much to interest homemakers during the four-day course from the new and colorful cooking utensils to furniture, dishes, linens and what the well-dressed homemanager will wear this year. A decorative note and a feature which attracted no small amount of close observation from the first day's cooking school class, is the mint

SOUND LEGION POLICY URGED

Johnson Calls on Vets To Consider Taxpayers as Well as Soldiers.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 4—American legionnaires were called upon today by their national commander, Louis A. Johnson, to adopt a policy on veterans' relief that would consider the tax-payer as well as the disabled ex-soldier.

Johnson, speaking before the opening business session of the Legion's fifteenth annual convention, reviewed events leading up to passage of the national economy act, which cut $300,000,000 a year from veterans' benefits, and said the reduction resulted in some part because of extravagance in previous legislation.

The national commander said some of the earlier laws "imposed injustices upon the government which should have been removed, not only in the interest of the taxpayer, but in the interest of our own honestly disabled comrades."

Reviews Activities

Reviewing the last year, Johnson said the Legion never had faced a more critical 12 months.

"We were subjected to the most merciless and most untruthful campaign of slander that ever beset an association of American veterans," he said. "What few shreds of criticism our enemies could

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Oct. 4—Those announcers of the world series, in both radio systems, did a great job.

I got a radio in my stable. Well, they made it seem so real that half a dozen times I started into a box stall to buy a hot dog and bottle of beer.

I like the way they announced where the batter come from, his home town, his weight, age, batting average and who he had been keeping company with. And that's what should be done with radio singers.

"This crooner is from Adenoid, N. J.; he sings left-handed, weights 118 pounds without his tonsils. He sang 335 songs last year, with nothing to remember 'em by but his manuscript. He was first with Claremore, Okla., in the O. K. League, divorced three times, and is looking for a break." Yours,

NEW SUPREME JUDGE NAMED

C. B. Zimmerman of Springfield Appointed to Succeed Robert H. Day.

IS CHOSEN BY GOVERNOR

Selected from List of Prospects; Is Fifth Democrat in High Tribunal.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 4 Charles B. Zimmerman of Springfield was appointed a judge of the Ohio supreme court today by Governor George White. He succeeds the late Judge Robert H. Day.

The appointment came less than a week after the death of Judge Day, who succumbed in a hospital here following amputation of his right leg, infected from an old injury.

From the first Judge Zimmerman was considered the governor's choice among several other prominent Democratic jurists, including Common Pleas Judges N. Craig McBride, of Hillsboro; A. W. Overmyer of Fremont; Robert N. Wilkin of New Philadelphia; William P. Henderson of Kenton, and T. D. Rice of New Lexington.

A graduate of Wittenberg college and the Harvard law school, Judge Zimmerman was chairman of the house taxation committee during his term as state representative. He is a World war veteran.

The appointment of Judge Zimmerman gives the Democrats five of the seven places on the supreme court bench. The two Republicans are Thomas A. Jones of Jackson and Edward S. Matthias of Van Wert.

Besides Zimmerman, the Democratic members are Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt of Cleveland and Judges Howard L. Bevis of Cincinnati, Will P. Stephenson of West Union, and Florence E. Allen of Cleveland.

Zimmerman sought election to the supreme court last year and was a candidate for attorney general in 1926. Previously, he had been a candidate for congress in the seventh district.

Born in Springfield, 42 years ago, Zimmerman becomes the youngest member of the supreme court and the first World war veteran to win the post. Judge Matthias is a veteran of the Spanish-American war.

Zimmerman will serve until November, 1934, when he must run for reelection for the unexpired term of Judge Day.

Roosevelt Puts Emphasis Upon Peace Between Capital and Labor.

JOHNSON SEES PRESIDENT

Tells Operators of Mines To Quit "Quibbling About Small Points.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 President Roosevelt put the spur to enforcement of his national recovery codes today with particular emphasis on peace between capital and labor.

Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator, sounded the call for orderly relations in the new deal last night after a talk with the President when he called for an end of "mob conditions" in the bituminous fields about Pittsburgh.

In this instance Johnson sided with labor and told operators of "captive" mines operated by the steel and iron companies to quit "quibbling about small points."

Standing Pat

He is permitting no interpretation of the clause in the national industrial recovery act declaring the right of collective bargaining for labor. He is standing pat on the right of employes to deal with employers through their own representatives. The signing of 17 more codes for industry late yesterday marked the transition of the recovery drive from the organization to the enforcement phase.

Against Mobs

Referring to the recurrence of strife in the western Pennsylvania bituminous fields, he declared "we can't continue to permit mob conditions around Pittsburgh and we are not going to permit it."

He agreed with the position of the miners in the "captive" mines that the agreement with the operators allowing the same working conditions as prevailed in the mines organized by the United Mine Workers should permit the checkoff system and the election by miners of check weighmen.

One more of the basic codes remains to be signed—that for the retail trades. Mr. Roosevelt will return to Washington tonight.

PUBLIC INVITED TO DRY MEETING HERE

The public has been invited to attend the meeting with the United Dry Forces of Marion county will sponsor tonight at 7.30 at Wesley M. E. church.

The meeting has been called in the interests of prohibition, and within a few days after tonight's session, three persons will be selected to pledge themselves to attendance at a state dry convention in Columbus Nov. 1 and 2.

Meetings similar to the one which has been planned for Marion, are being held throughout the 88 Ohio counties this month in preparation for the dry convention at Columbus.

S. P. McNaught, state superintendent of the Ohio Anti-Saloon league, will explain the fall campaign in his talk tonight, and the convention and its purpose will be discussed by Rev. Frank B. McIntosh, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Westerville.

Parties Line Up Forces for Municipal Campaign

Workers Organized in Each of City's 42 Precints for Vote Drive.

Both major political parties will conduct the municipal election campaign largely through the mouths of their precinct workers, party leaders said today as they prepared to swing into the final month of the campaign to elect city officials for a two-year period to begin next Jan. 1.

Both the Democratic and Republican organizations have been carrying on preliminary campaign work for nearly a month. As a result of their efforts, workers are organized in each of the city's 42 precincts and the stage is practically set for the campaign work that will be carried on throughout October and the first six days of November. The election will be held Nov. 7.

Both W. N. Harder, chairman of the Republican executive committee and Dr. C. J. Altmaier, chairman of the Democratic executive and central committees, reached in their offices yesterday, said the campaigns will be carried on largely by precinct workers, and that little public fanfare has been planned.

Both also remarked at the absence of clear-cut campaign issues which have featured a number of campaigns in previous years. Even in street-corner political discussions there is little mention of campaign issues. Municipal ownership of public utilities is frequently mentioned, but both Mayor W. C. Phillians, Republican, and Clarence A. Bolin, Democrat, head of their respective tickets, have gone on record in favor of municipal ownership, at least of the water plant.

Men, women and young voters' groups in both parties have organized for the campaign, and already are planning series of meetings for this month, party leaders said. Republican headquarters in the Marion Building, Savings & Loan Co. building have been open several weeks, and Democratic headquarters will be opened within another week.

OHIO MEDICAL GROUP NAMES LOCAL DOCTOR

Dr. H. K. Mouser of 141 South Prospect street was named first vice president at the closing session of the eighty-ninth annual meeting of the western Ohio Medical association yesterday afternoon at Tiffin. Dr. C. E. Hufford of Toledo was elected president and Dr. J. A. Marshall of Findlay, secretary. Dr. E. L. Brady of Marion is the retiring treasurer of the organization, the oldest in the state.

Speakers for the two-day meeting were from Rochester, Minn. Boston and other medical centers of the country. The sessions were held in the auditorium of the junior high school building and the closing banquet was at the Mohawk Country club last night. Monday was devoted to golf and social diversions.

Flax Raising Makes Bid for Favor with Farmers

First Crop Since Days of Homespun Linen Is Raised in Marion County.

For the first time since the days when Marion women spun their own linen, flax is being grown in Marion county. As far as can be ascertained, the 60-acre crop which Oscar Noe of 752 East Center street is preparing to harvest Oct. 15 on the Uhler farm four miles west of Marion on the Keeler pike, is the first flax to be grown in quantity in Marion county in a great many years.

Mr. Noe is enthusiastic about flax. He considers it the easiest and surest crop available to farmers, and he should know. From 1913 to 1921 he devoted his South Dakota ranch to the raising of flax, and he never had a crop fail, he said. Neither heat nor rain, unless extremely excessive, has any effect on the plant, and if the soil is right, the crop is bound to be abundant.

To Build Plant

Added impetus has been given Mr. Noe's enthusiasm by the announcement Sept. 24 from Chicago of the erection of a million dollar linen manufacturing plant in Cicero, the first plant of its kind in this country. Heretofore the United States has never manufactured fine linens, but by a process exclusive with Charles A. Body, president of the Gold Shield Manufacturing Co., the weaving of the finest linens will be possible upon completion of the company's plant.

Flax is always a sure crop, according to Mr. Noe. The crop which he planted on June 26, will be ready to harvest by the fifteenth of this month, and if conditions arise which make it impossible to thresh at that time, the crop will not be damaged if it stands another month. Unlike most seed-bearing plants, flax plants do not shatter.

He expects a yield of from 10 to 15 bushels of seed per ...

CROWDER FORCED FROM BOX IN 6TH; SCORE IS 6 TO 1

By The Associated Press

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Oct. 4 — The supposedly weak hitting New York Giants' ball club broke loose today with another heavy assault on Washington pitchers and blasted out the second consecutive World series victory, 6 to 1. The victory gives the Giants a two to nothing advantage over the Senators as the two-day stand at the Polo grounds is completed. The teams will transfer hostilities to Griffith stadium in Washington for the next three days.

Gen. Alvin Crowder, ace of the Washington mound staff, started on the hill for the Senators, but was driven to the showers in the sixth inning. He was opposed by Hal Schumacher.

The game in detail:

First Inning

Senators—Myer walked on a curve that missed the plate by inches. The Senators apparently were using waiting tactics. Goslin bounded to Ryan who came in fast and threw the goose out at first. Myer reaching second. Manush drove a long fly to Davis whose fast throw prevented Myer from making any attempt to advance after the catch. Cronin struck out. Herman Bell who had started to warm up in the bull pen sat down again. No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

Giants—Moore struck out. Critz bunted to Kuhel who made an easy putout at first base. The ball was hit too hard. Terry lifted a high fly that Cronin took behind third base. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Second Inning

Senators — Schulte rapped a grounder to Schumacher for an easy putout at first base. Kuhel raised a short fly on which Ryan made a nice running catch in short left field. Bluege walked. Sewell raised a fly to Moore who caught the ball in left center. No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

Giants—Ott, the batting hero of the first game, got a big hand. There was some debate over Ott's stance on the edge of the batting box. Ott walked on a fourth wide pitch and the crowd booed. Davis singled sharply to center and Ott pulled up at second. Jackson bunted to Bluege and was thrown out at first on a sacrifice. Ott advanced to third and Davis to second base. Mancuso grounded to Bluege who made the putout at first base after holding the runners to their bags. Ryan went out to Kuhel unassisted, the ball glancing off his bat as he was stepping away from a fast one over the inside. No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

Third Inning

Senators — Crowder grounded out, Jackson to Terry. Myer capped a hopper to Ryan and was out on a snappy play. Goslin lashed a home run into the upper deck of the right field stands. Manush hoisted to Moore. One run, one hit, no errors, none left.

Giants — Schumacher fanned. Moore grounded out, Crowder to Kuhel. Critz walked. Crowder didn't like the decision and came half way in to the plate to protest. Terry lifted a high fly to Schulte. No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

Fourth Inning

Senators—Cronin raised a high fly to Ott in short right. Jackson threw out Schulte on his slow grounder. Kuhel popped a sinker and was thrown out, Critz to Terry. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Giants—Ott hoisted a high fly to Kuhel. Davis raised a high foul that Kuhel grabbed halfway to Giants' dugout. Jackson's hot grounder was speared by Cronin, retiring the Giant third baseman with a fine throw. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Fifth Inning

Senators—Bluege drove a long fly to Moore. Sewell grounded to Ryan and was an easy out at first. Crowder hit the first ball to centerfield for a single. Myer grounded to Critz and Crowder was forced at second, Critz to Ryan. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Giants—Mancuso grounded out, Mancuso to Kuhel, who was pulled off the bag by a wild throw, but tagged the runner. Ryan drove a line single to center. Schumacher grounded to Cronin and the Senators retired the side with an easy double play, Cronin to Myer to Kuhel. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Bluege fanned swinging at a fast ball inside and the crowd came up to its feet with a wild outburst of cheering. No runs, one hit, no errors, three left.

Giants—Moore slapped the first ball pitched to left for a single. The crowd was in a wild uproar. Critz bunted to Kuhel whose fast throw to Cronin forced Moore at second. Critz got to first. Terry doubled along the left field foul line, Critz stopping at third. The Senators went into a big huddle with Crowder as Ott came to bat. Ott was purposely passed on four wide pitches filling the bases. O'Doul batted in place of Davis. O'Doul singled to center, scoring Critz and Terry. Ott stopped at second. The crowd was in a terrific uproar as the former National league batting champion came through in the pinch. Jackson pulled a long hit to center, scoring Ott and sending O'Doul to third. Schulte made a fast relay and Jackson was held to a single. Mancuso pulled a squeeze play and O'Doul scored on his bunt down the third base line which went for a single as the Senators' inner defense was caught napping. Ryan fanned on a called third strike. Jackson scored on Schumacher's single past third base, Mancuso stopping at second. Moore cracked the first pitch over second base for his second hit of the inning, scoring Mancuso and knocking Crowder out. Schumacher stopped at second base. Thomas went in for the Senators. Critz grounded to Cronin who juggled the ball, it went for a single and the bases were filled. Terry grounded to Myer and Critz was forced at second, Myer to Cronin, ending the big rally. Six runs, eight hits, no errors, three left.

Seventh Inning

Senators—Homer Peel was in center field for the Giants. The police had to help O'Doul get into the clubhouse as the bleacher crowd tried to grab Lefty on his way up the steps. Sewell raised a high one that Ott grabbed as he bumped into the right field wall. Rice batted for Thomas. Rice lined a single to center field. Myer looped a high fly to Ott in deep right. Goslin hoisted a towering fly that Ott took in deep right over 350 feet from the plate. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Giants—The Senators sent in their veteran recruit, Alex McColl, a right hander, to the box. Ott grounded out, Cronin to Kuhel. Peel bounded to Myer and was out at first. Jackson hit the first ball to Cronin who made a fine throw from deep short for the putout. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Eighth Inning

Senators—Manush rapped a single past Terry. Cronin grounded sharply to Jackson and the Giants completed a fast double play, Jackson to Critz to Terry. Schulte hoisted a foul to Mancuso. No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Giants—Mancuso lined out to Manush who made a fine running catch near the left field foul line. Ryan was thrown out on a grounder to McColl. Schumacher grounded to Kuhel who made a nice stop of a twisting grounder and beat the pitcher to first base with a slide. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Ninth Inning

Senators—Kuhel lofted out to Moore who came over into left center for the catch. Harris batted for Bluege. Harris grounded to Jackson who made a fine pickup and threw to get his man at first. Bolton batted for Sewell. Bolton grounded out, Schumacher to Terry. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FLAX RAISING BIDS FOR FARMERS' FAVOR

approximately four tons of straw to the acre. On Sept. 26 the Chicago market quoted flax seed at $1.91 a bushel, and the straw, from which the flax fibers for linen is extracted, is generally worth from $15 to $20 per ton, Mr. Noe said.

Mr. Noe takes exception to the popular belief that flax is hard on soil. He has found that it does not demand as much from the soil as timothy hay, and that he has grown better crops on land in which flax has been cultivated.

No Waste in Flax.

Every part of the flax plant can be used. According to the New International Encyclopedia, "no plant not yielding food, is more useful to man." Mr. Noe points out that the seeds yield an oil called linseed oil which is used for paints, varnishes, etc., and that the remaining crushed mass, linseed cake or oilcake, is extremely fine food for cattle, hogs or chickens. The hulls are excellent feed.

Fine flax is used in manufacturing shoes and the coarse fibres are used for gunnysacks. In the west Mr. Noe shipped his flax straw to a Wisconsin mill that manufactured gunnysacks.

The plant itself is a slender, erect stem that grows from a height of from two to three feet and branches out near the top. The stalk bears a blue flower which starts blooming in the morning and stays out until about 3 p. m. of the same day and then drops off. The head begins to form immediately.

Flax should be planted from the first of April to the middle of June, Mr. Noe said. Generally, it matures in three months, but the time varies according to the weather.

Same Thresher Used

Flax is threshed with the same machine used for grains. Mr. Noe has found that a combine is the best threshing equipment because it handles the plant the easiest, and he plans to use this type of machine when he harvests the 80 acres.

If he finds a market for his crop he plans to cut the top with a combine and mow the straw for shipping to a factory.

Flax, according to authorities, has been cultivated since the earliest historic times. It is mentioned in the Bible and expeditions in Egypt have found the mummies wrapped in linen cloth.

In Belgium, where flax is most successfully cultivated, the peasants guard against starving the oil by applying stable manure which has been well rotted to avoid danger of fouling the land with weeds, before winter sets in and in the spring treating the soil with heavy applications of fertilizers.

Mr. Noe is the engineer at Harding High school, a position he has held for several years. For four years previous to his employment at the school, he was the engineer at Hotel Harding. He is a native of Putnam county, and with the exception of the years spent in South Dakota, near Pierre, has spent most of his life in the vicinity of Kenton and Ada.

World consumption of American cotton in the year ending with January amounted to 15,047,000 bales as compared with 5,181,000 bales from all other countries.

Jangled nerves bring words that hurt

Suppose a hidden phonograph were taking down your words all during the day. How often would you be embarrassed and shocked at the things you may have said under the stress of jangled nerves?

A sharp word, a fit of temper, an unfair accusation—these hurt your friends and your loved ones—and they hurt you, too.

GRAND, HEADACHES COMPLETELY GONE - THANKS TO YOU AND YOUR LESSON ABOUT BAYER ASPIRIN
WELL HOW DO YOU FEEL NOW, MR. SMALLEY

A Discovery that's Bringing Faster Relief to Millions

Here is quicker relief from pain—the fastest safe relief, it is said, ever known. This is due to a scientific discovery by which BAYER Aspirin starts "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass here tells the story. A Bayer tablet starts to disintegrate or dissolve—go to work—almost instantly. This means quick relief from pain—fewer lost hours from headache, neuritis, rheumatism. And safe, relief. For genuine Bayer Aspirin does not harm the heart.

When you buy, see that you get the genuine Bayer Aspirin. The best way is never to ask for aspirin by the name "aspirin" alone. But if you want Bayer Aspirin's quick relief always to say "BAYER Aspirin."

WHY BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST
Drop a Bayer Tablet in a glass of water. Note that BEFORE it touches bottom, it has started to disintegrate.
What it does in this glass it does in your stomach. Hence its fast action

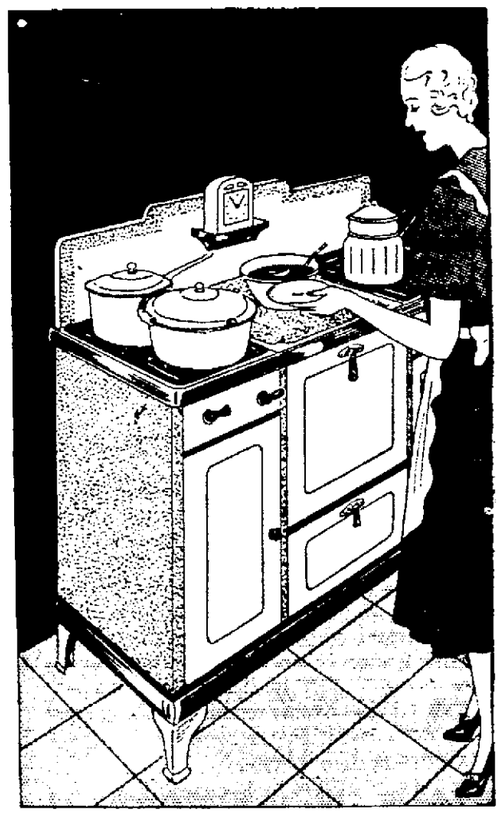
Everyone Enthuses Over The New Tappan D-I-V-I-D-E-D Top

After Seeing This GAS Range in Action at The Star Cooking School



Quite likely you are among the many who have been privileged to see the Tappan D-I-V-I-D-E-D top gas range in action as demonstrated by Mrs. Ruth Campbell at The Star Cooking School. Like others, you no doubt were captured by its efficient performance and its unusual beauty. Perhaps you are one of those who already have decided that your next range will be a Tappan.

The Task of Cooking Becomes a Pleasure

There is no crowding of utensils on the Tappan D-I-V-I-D-E-D top gas range—no reaching over the flame to tend the cooking. And you'll like the handy service space between the burners.

The thermostatic control takes the guess work out of your oven and broiler cooking. Heavy insulation directs heat to the cooking and allows less to escape into the kitchen. The Tappan is an economical range to operate.

One of several attractive styles of Tappan ranges will suit your needs best, and will harmonize well with your other kitchen furnishings. With all of its many advantages, Tappan costs no more than any other well constructed range—and payments can be made easily with your gas bill.

The Finest Fuel

Gas gives instant heat. The little gas flame has the cooking job well under way before other fuels get started. Its cleanliness is excelled by no other fuel. It is the most adaptable to automatic regulation of any fuel used for cooking purposes. A constant and steady supply is always available—awaiting use in your range.

The Most Economical

Gas is the most economical fuel for cooking. It costs only one-quarter cent per person, per meal to cook with gas. From a survey among 1,000 families using different fuels for cooking, it was found that gas is worth $2.50 per 1,000 cubic feet for this purpose — several times the amount you ever have been asked to pay. Gas is your greatest bargain.

Daily Guide to Health

BY DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND.

Tuberculosis Still a Vital Problem.

Nowadays we rarely hear the dreaded word "consumption." The disease is still a vital problem in public health, but the word "tuberculosis" is now used to describe it. Because of better control, tuberculosis no longer causes the anxiety and apprehension of former years.

This change of attitude can readily be explained by the tremendous advances made in the treatment and cure of this affliction. At one time the victim of tuberculosis was doomed to an inevitable fate. Today, with proper hygiene, improvement in surroundings and necessary medication, the sufferer may become a healthy and useful citizen. Indeed, many cases of tuberculosis are entirely cured.

Complete cure can only be hoped for when the underlying disease is recognized in its early stages and the proper measures of control are taken. Tuberculosis still remains a hopless disease when it is allowed to exist for years without medical attention. Not only is the victim doomed, but he is a menace to the health of his family and friends.

I am confident that if everyone were familiar with the early signs of tuberculosis more complete cures would be reported. A recent analysis shows that neglect of the early symptoms has much to do with prolonging tuberculosis. Though there are definite signs of the disease, a diagnosis cannot always be made from one sign. Nevertheless, tuberculosis should be suspected in an individual who complains of loss of weight, night sweats, persistent cough, blood streaked sputum and other general signs of ill health.

I am often asked whether change of climate is essential to the cure of tuberculosis. In former years it was believed that a high, dry climate was essential. Though such a climate is beneficial and most desirable it is now the belief of most specialists that change of climate is not absolutely necessary.

Rest, supervised activities abundant fresh air and sunlight, are the essentials of a complete cure. In certain cases this treatment may be carried on at home. Where the home is crowded and facilities for proper nursing are lacking the treatment is best given at a sanitorium that specializes in this work.

Virginia 32nd State To Vote for Dry Repeal

By The Associated Press

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 4—Virginia made the score by states 32 to 0 today in favor of repeal of the Eighteenth amendment.

The Old Dominion, one of the bulwarks of prohibition since 1914, turned thumbs down yesterday on the amendment it had been the second to ratify and at the same time recommended repeal of the Layman act, state dry law.

Almost complete returns indicated every district in the state had joined the repeal movement with a majority of the counties joining the cities in opposition to the prohibition regime.

Although belated returns from some of the dry areas cut down the repeal ratio slightly, it was early apparent that the anti-prohibitionists would win with votes to spare.

With 1,246 out of 1,690 precincts reported, the vote stood 90,742 for repeal and 50,886 against. With slightly fewer precincts tabulated the vote stood 85,941 for a state liquor control system as against 47,124 for continuance of state prohibition.

Florida will vote next Tuesday and on Nov. 7 referendums will be held in North and South Carolina, Ohio, Kentucky, Pennsylvania and Utah.

Credit To Spur NRA.

The frequency with which appeals for credit are being made by administration spokesmen has the appearance of a straw in the wind to some observers. These latter are asking themselves why so much is being made of the point that the national recovery program can be made or broken by credit.

They are asking themselves, also, what is the alternative to the easy credit described as desirable by President Roosevelt and his lieutenants. To that question there is only one answer. It is being given daily in a hundred ways by the looming power of the currency inflationists. Either there will be credit or the printing presses will be started.

From the President's statements and from his actions it is deduced by those who are reluctant to face the prospect of currency inflation that he will exhaust the possibilities of more adequate credit inflation before he thinks of increasing the supply of money already outstanding. This will not please outright inflationists; they were ready to put their plan into effect months ago.

Looking forward to what may happen, an observer may suspect that if inflation comes it will be explained as a policy made imperative by refusal of bankers to cooperate with the administration in making credit sufficiently abundant to meet the demands of the recovery movement. This is a real possibility, and one which will not please bankers. Their cautious credit policies, they argue, are dictated by the interests of their depositors.

Profit.

The Ferguson regime in Texas comes into the news again after a respite with a state senate investigation into relief fund administration. Investigators and citizens are curious about the bank account of the male partner in the Lone Star state's governing team. "Pa" Ferguson has salted down more than $66,000 since the beginning of the year, it has been disclosed.

It does not follow necessarily that this tidy profit shown by the husband of the woman governor of Texas has any connection with her political success. There is, however, a natural suspicion among critics of the state's two-for-one administration. Unfortunately, the character of the Fergusons is not such as to quiet suspicions; tangible proof is held more desirable.

The bank accounts of public officials have been a point of natural interest ever since Samuel Seabury used them so effectively in his investigation into the government of New York City. They are a fruitful source of evidence. Until politicians learn to conceal them as effectively as gangsters have been able to do, they will be one of the first objectives of every investigating group.

A public official who draws a salary of $10,000 a year, unless he has remunerative business interests of a private nature, cannot expect to bank more than his salary without arousing doubts concerning his honesty. The official who performs what seems to be a miracle by saving more than he makes can expect to be the object of curiosity every time.

It may be necessary ultimately in the course of events to oblige each holder of a public office to file with proper authorities a true account of his holdings upon entering and leaving office. Graft is the epidemic disease of public service. Its practice or even the suspicion of its practice seems to be the only offense which cannot be excused. A public accounting would protect the honest official. Needless to say, it would prove acutely embarrassing to all others.

$50,000,000 Worth of Pigs.

A few weeks of furious spending have completed that phase of the recovery program having to do with hogs. The federal government has spent $50,000,000. As a result it has come into possession of nearly 6,000,000 pigs weighing up to 100 pounds and more than 150,000 sows soon to farrow.

Next to the administration of that part of the national recovery act dealing with codes, no part of the recovery program has been more widely and more fervently discussed over the country than this effort of the agricultural administration to raise the price of pork and improve the condition of farmers. It has been, in a way, a symbol of the radical experimentation of the Roosevelt new deal.

The individual beneficiary's share of $50,000,000 is, of course, a considerable amount. The increase in the purchasing power it has helped to bring about is part of a more noteworthy achievement. It is the thing that has been done for the consumer of pork whose wages have not increased materially in the last few months. The expenditure of a small amount has made a decrease in his cost of living.

This is consistent with the whole theory of the recovery program. Only as the wage earner is protected by this time that wages can be allowed to increase in proportion to the prices of commodities will the program have been a success. The thing is being done on faith that order will emerge from chaos. Nothing like it ever was attempted before. Men used to believe that restoration of order following accidental confusion in purchasing power was a natural process. Now they are seeing confusion produced artificially to hasten what they hope will be a successful artificial restoration of order.

The experiment with hogs named farmers as the direct beneficiaries. It will be interesting to hear whatever evidence may be adduced to show that farmers are able to see how they have profited. On the face of the matter, it would seem that if farmers have no reason to be grateful wage earners cannot be expected to be grateful either, since it is they who must pay, in addition to their share of taxes, the cost of whatever effect an artificial shortage may produce on prices.

Don't Disturb.

Resumption of the senate banking committee's inquiry into Wall Street practices is a mixed blessing for the public whose interests are supposed to be served. It is healthy to search out hidden things, to disclose weaknesses in the structure and to reveal the presence of unworthy persons. But it is not encouraging to have all these things revealed with the tacit admission that nothing can be done to prevent continued damage.

Testimony produced in the inquiry last spring showed Americans many things that were wrong with their country. It revealed in staggering proportions, for instance, the power of money. It disclosed a grave weakness in the income tax law—a weakness which enabled capitalists to evade payment of taxes to the government which clerks and artisans were obliged to pay. It snatched fine reputations from more than one familiar name in the United States.

These things promised fine results. Yet, they apparently have produced no actual result other than destruction of confidence. There were no convictions—no sign to the people that they would be protected better in the future against misuse of money power. It is for this reason that resumption of the inquiry cannot be hailed with unmitigated enthusiasm. The objective, if there is one, has not been made clear.

It is said that no senate investigation has been prepared for more elaborately than that of the banking committee. For two months Investigator Pecora and his assistants have been gathering new material. So much data is at hand that the committee will have to sit for two months in order to get the record complete for presentation to the senate in January. This represents a frontal attack on a sector of national life which, with one or two exceptions, has flourished behind a "Don't Disturb" sign. It will avail little to conquer that sector if the victory can't be turned to advantage.

In Full Swing.

There is no game which gets under way with the incredible speed of football. A season which offers less than 12 games can't linger long at the barrier. Teams that may have only a few weeks of practice behind them must jump into schedules of competition headlong.

But rough edges soon are smooth. By the second game, potentialities either have been discovered or are known definitely to be missing. By the third game, which comes next Saturday for most teams, full strength has been developed.

All signs are favorable this year for a more successful season, in the sense that there should be improvement over last year and the year before. Not for players, of course, will there be more success because every season is an end in itself for them. Spectators will get the break.

They will be able to see some of the best games at prices that will cheer them up. There is the prospect that from among teams which haven't been shown much for the last several seasons there will emerge new strength. Upsets started last Saturday, and more are in sight.

Baseball will bid this week for a reprieve while the world series is played but football is king. Without warning, it has claimed the interest of a nation. Its reign will be short but, as always, glorious.

Highlights of Ohio History

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

RELIGION IN PRIMEVAL OHIO.

The late Rev. I. K. King of Columbus, whose life ran back into the primeval days of Ohio, wrote in his latter days a history of Methodism in Ohio in which he gave an interesting homely description of the early services of that denomination in the state. They were necessarily held in the cabins of settlers by itinerant preachers, there being no church buildings and hardly any organized societies. A stump, a chair or a bench served as a pulpit. A wooden bench placed on supports at the side of the room served as seats for those who attended. There were no hymn books, but the preacher carried a Bible and a hymn book in his saddle bags. The worshippers came in their plain clothes—mostly their working attire. Several places claim the honor of having the first Methodist services in Ohio but Mr. King believed the honor belonged to the neighborhood of Warrenton in Jefferson county. The date was September, 1787.

New York Day By Day

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 4—Atlantic City is about to convert to an all-year-around resort. Actually it is certain California spots—summer is the season but large hotels never close. It's not the spot of 20 years ago, what of it?—but remains a pleasant seaside stretch.

Many of The Boardwalk has gone jim-crunky with its wax horrors, guess your weight artists and penny hucksters. Yet there are still luxurious strips. This morning the city is so shrouded with fog the ocean at the doorstep is merely a non-visible shriek and roar. But, praise be, no fog here.

Atlantic City weather, like its crowds, is set early. Even now the sun is beginning to clear the fog-line mist. The beach will be warm when polar bears, roller chairs will begin their to and fro, shops open and pitchmen brave the nip of autumnal air.

The parade is never without celebrity. Today I see Jean Harlow, Wallace Munching salt water taffy, George White. Shivering down the boardwalk for a plunge, Morton Downey and Arthur Caesar. All the world and a lot of some other fellows—become a part of the leisurely loll.

Atlantic City's seafront is magnificent for its trotting—even to sitting-strutting push carts. Here Vernon Castle first appeared in pink-collared shirt with the peroxided and Lillian Russell her bejeweled opposite crook. Raymond Hitchcock's antics were once "tried out on the dog" here. Even The Boardwalk a preview of the pearl derby.

But the city is not all display window. Back of all plushed promenade are thousands of streets in less ornate widely verandaed frame inns, who, like New Yorkers never beholding Broadway, no not see the boardwalk. They have been coming for years to spread on the beach and retire early in an atmosphere noted for sound sleep. To them the piers, jazz bands, chairs and the like are so much Coney.

We climbed up to a silhouette snipper's hole in the wall for some of his scissoring masterpieces. He was a double for Eddie Cantor, chin, eyes and all. Deftly he sheared our profiles in black—3 for a quarter. Mine was especially pleasing, not because of its resemblance, but because so flattering. It sported a Leyendecker collar but just about to away on his polo pony.

Not can I resist the mind-readers. No matter the trickery, it's baffling. I set down burial clay on a pad that never left my hand. The Egyptian lady, with a Harlem accent, slid into a pseudo trance and spoke in a tongue in far away mumble. She told things quite true as well as many utterly ridiculous. We wheeled on to another fortune Rajah in turban. I initialed it E. M. on the pad. He said: "I'm sorry. Those are not your initials." I felt rather snubbed.

From a hotel window, I watched perambulating Boardwalk repair men, who with hammer, saw and nails scout for worn grooves and rotting plank ends, filling them out quicker than a cat's wink. Then the seedy fellows with shoulder bags and spiked stick who keep the walk free of paper, discarded cigar and cigaret butts. Despite the scattering winds, they rarely miss. But I wondered what whirlings of Fate twirled them to such tag ends of life.

Dining at Reubens—the most popular spot we came upon Janet Livingston with whom we both went to school in an Ohio town. We were in our teens when we last met. Yet exchanging glances all were vaguely conscious of acquaintance. Then recognition, as it so often does, came in a collective flash. I used to squire Janet to Miss Jenny Myers' Friday night dances in Alesbire Hall where terpischorially I was somewhat a wall-flower. So we repaired to the Million Dollar Steel Pier, jutting far to sea, and renewed 'em a step or two, but vaguely.

Tonight a screaming nor'easter blew up, howling Yankee Doodle around the cornices. I opened the door to a bell boy's rap and he skimmed in as though on roller skates. That's the way the wind tears around these here parts, I allow.

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Thursday, Oct. 4, 1923.

Plans for enlarging the field of activity of the Marion County Chapter of the Red Cross were submitted to the chairman, Dr. [illegible] W. McMurray, by a special committee consisting of J. W. Jacoby, J. H. Eymon and [illegible] Jones. The program included employment of an additional secretary to [illegible] work among ex-service families.

The executive committee of the Marion County [illegible] outlined a reorganization plan. The county was divided into two districts, a membership campaign with [illegible] in charge of the north half and [illegible] Bowman the south half.

It was Saturday, Oct. 4, 1913.

Reports in the impeachment proceedings involving Governor Sulzer of New York indicated early Sulzer and his supporters [illegible] that he would receive 19 votes for acquittal of the high court of impeachment and thus escape conviction, while the other side declared that he would receive only six votes.

Miss Theora Pauline of LaRue and Oscar [illegible] Messenger of Prospect were united in marriage by Rev. J. A. Sutton at his home in Prospect.

A group of high school girls chaperoned by one of the teachers, Miss Louise Cunningham, spent the day on a nutting expedition on the George Salmon farm south of Marion. In the party were Mary Anderson, Isabelle Frank, Helen Fries, Gladys Boyer, Charlotte Bechtle, Frances Irvin, Lillian McCormick and Vera Stockman.

Marion High school football team defeated Bucyrus at Bucyrus, 12 to 0. The touchdowns were made by Thompson and Knappenberger.

Washington And Wall Street

BY GEORGE DURNO.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—If the blue eagle never strikes another blow for country and glory, it is aiming to rid us of our greatest national menace.

By which we mean tips.

A battle royal is raging at NRA over the dime—or maybe quarters—you give the bell boy, the waitress, the porter, the maid and so on for service.

General Johnson's boys want to do away with tipping. They say it has no place in our economic structure.

The hotel men and the restaurateurs think otherwise and say so at the top of their lungs.

Somebody has to be right. It may be we'll get a break.

Ice Water.

NRA is facing another major crisis on the subject of "what price ice water?"

Approximately a million people are employed by the hotels. Restaurants unquestionably run far in excess of this figure. The operators are insisting that tips be taken into consideration when computing wages.

Deputy Administrator Whiteside says they are far too indefinite to be counted as part of the pay envelope. He is demanding a fixed minimum wage sizable enough to buy groceries for the family.

You can get a slant on the eagle's direction by heeding the suggestion of George M. Tisdale in behalf of the entire Consumers' board.

Tisdale advocates a six-month study of tipping with the ultimate view of abolishing it and placing all hotel employes on a straight salary basis.

The National Consumers' League has similar idea.

Set

It still appears that the operators are set in their views. Either tips will be counted [illegible] or else.

As a matter of fact the spokesman for the hotel people made it quite clear they didn't consider themselves within the law at all and were offering a code only because of "public demand and the wishes of the President of the United States."

The head of the Statler corporation announced in no uncertain terms that tips had been counted as part of the employe's compensation for many years.

Frankenstein

Your genial hosts at so much a day likewise are standing pat on another provision of their submitted code. That is the "merit" clause which permits promotion or sacking of the help without regard to union affiliations.

The automobile manufacturers first put this clause over on General Johnson. Since then virtually every industry has incorporated it.

Those at headquarters are ruefully coming to the conclusion it is a Frankenstein.

In the temporary restaurant code tips are not recognized. Further it is stipulated the employers may not charge for employes' meals unless it has been the custom since 1929.

The bosses want this changed. They make no bones about saying they'll stay here until the Lincoln Memorial Pool freezes up for ice skating in order to accomplish it.

Anvil Chorus

The writer of a confidential Washington letter that is sold to many business men over the country has been hammering away at NRA in recent weeks. He has said quite frankly he thought it was slowing up almost to a standstill.

In one of his recent letters he said jobs were being sold under the New Deal. Even those who got very minor positions were being forced to kick in $50 or $100 to the Democratic war chest in quite a few instances.

This last crack seemed to lodge under a lot of skins.

Assistant Secretary of Commerce John Dickinson and Edward F. Roper, executive secretary of the Democratic national committee and also son of the commerce secretary, sicced a couple of department of justice agents on the purveyor of private Washington lowdown.

The agents called on him at his office. It made him pretty mad.

They asked him if he could give contributions were being required as a perquisite to a government job.

The business-letter author said no—not without involving certain friends who of course would lose their jobs.

The D. of J. men departed and that was the last he heard of the situation—so far.

Snow

Officials of the narcotics bureau are wondering whether the Women's Christian Temperance Union has decided to enter a new field now that prohibition is wabbling on its last legs.

The president of an Ohio chapter of the W. C. T. U. wrote in recently for detailed literature on the evils of dope.

A bureau executive who has small love for the Eighteenth amendment observed caustically that the white ribboners seemed to be changing their racket along with the bootleggers from whisky to snow.

Laugh

Washington is getting a laugh from the paradoxical situation confronting Germany's Nazi minister of propaganda whose chief business seems to be Jew extermination.

The minister's wife was a refugee from Belgium during the war. She was brought up and educated by a Jewish family in Berlin.

Notes

Apartment houses and apartment hotels—at least in Washington—seem to be remiss in signing up under blue eagle. . . . Ask your elevator operators, switchboard girls, janitors, etc., what hours they are working and for how much. . . . Representatives here of the Macy Department in New York are all hot and bothered because Judge Samuel I. Rosenman spent a week-end at the White House just before President Roosevelt left for Hyde park. . . . Rosenman, who used to be the President's attorney, represents the majority of retail merchants whose code is very much opposed by the Macy-mail-order interests.

BY JAMES McMULLIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—The epidemic of labor trouble has thrown a switch on the main line of recovery. Local insiders say the government must move fast or the train will land in the ditch for keeps. There are signs that Washington is aware of the emergency and will use the mailed fist on industry as required.

Strikes in the steel and coal industries have two causes. Resistance to unionization and delay of steel companies in announcing the signing up of their coal mining subsidiaries for the coal code.

For instance the Frick mines (controlled by U. S. Steel) stalled as long as possible. They thought the code gave them the rawest deal in a competitive sense of any unit in the industry. Whereupon miners in other districts were called out to remain on strike until the Frick people signed up. The move was also intended as a demonstration of union strength and solidarity.

The steel companies don't like the idea of having unions crammed down their throats one bit better than they did a couple of months ago. On that subject they are about the hardest-boiled of any industry. Some companies were not at all averse to the strikes because they wanted to find out "whether the American Federation of Labor is a part of the United States government." There are those in the industry who would be quick to take advantage if the government's foot slips ever so slightly.

The motor industry (barring Ford) takes the position that it's the government's business to protect them from strikes. They claim they have signed their code and are living up to it and now they want the law to take their part against labor organizers. They are using diplomacy where the steel people seem tough. But the steel plans will look much smoother when you get the full picture.

Come-Back

There are plenty of big time conservatives who see a swell chance for a come-back to their ancient glory. They think they see signs that the government is weakening on NRA and are getting set to make an issue of individualism versus labor domination.

A battle on those lines might do some good at that. It would be national in scope and might divert attention from sectional sore spots now developing all over the place.

Coal

Southern coal operators have already found ways to chisel off the sectional disadvantage apparently inflicted on them by the coal code. Their employes now have to pay more for rent and supplies in company shacks and at company stores. This largely offsets their wage increase. These matters were not covered in the code so nobody can charge them with violation.

Also they have found a way to allow disguised rebates in price. New York had been mystified at the ready acceptance by southern mines of conditions that looked like their competitive death warrant. Now it begins to percolate that the boys were not so dumb after all. Today they are actually making business gains at the expense of northern operators.

Even

Mid-western readers may find the first issue of the new Vincent Astor-Raymond Moley magazine especially interesting. A feature article will be a lethal gun aimed at a New Deal insider of considerable importance—Henry Morgenthau, Jr. It looks as if Mr. Moley will lean at the chance to square some old accounts.

Powder Keg

Local insiders say that the match to ignite the European powder keg is more likely to be struck in the Saar Basin than in Danzig or the Polish Corridor or even Austria.

Confidential reports indicate that the situation there is far more alarming than appears in the news. The League of Nations government commission has leaned over backward to give the Germans a free hand in conducting propaganda for the coming plebiscite. It was anxious to avoid Nazi charges of trying to influence public opinion against Germany. This has opened the gates to the Nazis for fair.

The Hitlerites have flooded the country with ardent followers and already control about 60 per cent of the territorial police. A major explosion may occur any time which would compel the government commission to call in French troops. Nobody dares to predict what would happen then. Saarbrucken might become another Sarajevo.

Letup

Promoters of the anti-Nazi boycott shouldn't pat themselves too hard on the back for the letup in the anti-Jewish campaign. The boycott had very little to do with it.

What happened was that the Nazis found they were crippling German home industry by too rigid application of the non-Aryan rule. Some of their best engineers turned out to have Jewish grandmothers. Even factories which supply materials for the Krupp concern might have been forced to close and that was carrying things altogether too far.

Sidelights

European diplomats credit the German embassy in Washington with a neat bit of strategy. James Roosevelt will not go to Germany on his much-advertised European trip, but he and his party of 11 sailed on a German liner. George Viereck's diplomatic plea to call off the boycott shows he is doing the job for which he was invited to Germany.

At Yesterday's Game

POLO GROUNDS, New York City, Oct. 3—More than 50,000 people are gathered here this afternoon, jumping up and down, waving their arms, watching the first game of the world series that will decide which baseball team rules baseball this year.

The field is entirely surrounded by human beings on [illegible] seats. At the far end, [illegible] from the man at bat [illegible] brown plate, erected in memory of Eddie Grant, a Harvard baseball player, third baseman [illegible] enlisted, was killed in the war.

Out there are two [illegible] price $1.10, nothing [illegible] if it rains. The police [illegible] with the bleacher crowd, were hurt in the rush. [illegible] miles of seats, under the upper deck, cost $6.60 [illegible] seats downstairs, $5.50 [illegible] $6.60. More than $18,000 [illegible] paid for tickets to this [illegible].

How the Money Goes

The world series [illegible] played by the New York [illegible] the National league and the [illegible] ington Senators of the American league. They will [illegible] players' shares of the [illegible] "owners" of the teams will [illegible] big profits.

The players are fine [illegible] specimens, possessing [illegible] strength, perfect sight, [illegible] ordination of mind, nerves, muscles.

The eye sees, the optic [illegible] the brain, the brain sends [illegible] to the arms, hands, legs. [illegible] is done in the fraction of a [illegible].

The crowd is not athletic, has strong lungs, and uses [illegible].

Everybody in the great [illegible] knows all about the 18 men [illegible] ing and others on each team in reserve. And the crowd intensely interested in [illegible] knows that this man is the [illegible] a college president in Maine, another the son of a police [illegible] Lynn, Mass., that Al Simmons [illegible] "the best brain and the best clown in baseball," meaning [illegible] he thinks and knows how to [illegible] others.

Enjoyed by All

Women, old and young, [illegible] numerous and as much excited as the men. The colored people that surrounds the ball field [illegible] per New York is well represented.

As a rule, the colored spectators are cheerful, smiling. They don't take it too seriously, being [illegible] than the young white man, [illegible] finished, eyes almost bursting [illegible] his head, who constantly sits [illegible] at the Senators. "What do you think of the Giants now?" Senator answers him, but he enjoys himself. "Each," the Frenchman says, "takes his pleasure where he finds it."

Often a foul ball goes into the grandstand, and there is a wild scramble for it. The rule is that the foul ball belongs to the customer that catches it." One man [illegible] tually risks a drop of 40 feet in going over to get the ball. He gets it and will be happy for many days to come.

If a foul ball hits the crowd in grandstand or rough wire screen back on the field, the umpire examines it, and if there is any abrasion on the leather cover the ball is discarded. A pitcher can make a ball [illegible] on one side do strange things. Every ball must be perfect.

Typically American

A "hit and run" play is attempted and fails. Herbert Glover, sitting behind a microphone, says: "That's the typically American game. You lose everything, in this typically American game."

It is an exciting game for those that sit and yell, and at it they can fill their lungs with fresh air. Fifty thousand Americans watching eighteen Americans [illegible] run after it or throw. [illegible] wish there were some other American game in which fifty thousand worked while a few looked on.

However, it has been [illegible] the Roman days, when [illegible] watched and yelled, [illegible] down or up, while gladiators or animals or each other [illegible] said, "They also serve who only stand and wait."

A Fine Tonic

Baseball makes millions happy and excited. Happiness and excitement are good for human beings. While more than 50,000 people are watching and yelling, [illegible] throughout the country [illegible] squirm at the radio, keeping track of each play. In fact, in a large number of automobile parked outside baseball grounds you may see [illegible] reclining at ease, listening to the game comes to them [illegible] automobile radio, not bothering to watch the game played, a few feet from them.

From small country towns and villages come the plaintive [illegible] cause all the yelling and excitement. Big New York City [illegible] few good baseball players, [illegible] enough fresh air, sunlight, [illegible] much automobile gas, [illegible].

Small Nephew—Yes, but I've cried a nickel's worth already. (Boston Transcript.)

KROGER QUESTIONS MILK PRICE FIXING

Chain Store Concern Doubts Validity of New State Law.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 4 — The constitutionality of a state law regulating milk prices has been questioned by the Kroger Grocery & Baking Co. of Cincinnati.

M. H. Schmidt, counsel for the company, said the chain store organization did not feel obligated to conform to price agreements authorized by the state milk marketing commission. The company has been selling milk here one cent below the retail price set for the area.

After a hearing in which the company was asked to show why it should not be denied a license to distribute milk, Harry Fahman, chairman of the commission announced no action would be taken until it has received further advice from the attorney general.

One Sure Way to End Coughs and Colds

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, and attacks the seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Your own druggist is authorized to refund your money on the spot if your cough or cold is not relieved by Creomulsion. (ADV.)

ST. MARYS, O., Oct. 4.—One of five men being sought today for the $12,650 robbery of the First National bank here is believed by W. O. Smith, the bank's conservator, to be Charles Makeley, former St. Marys resident, one of the convicts who escaped from the Michigan City, Ind., state prison last week.

Shortly after the men made their escape from the scene of the robbery late yesterday, Smith examined a photograph of Makeley and declared the convict was one of the bank robbers.

A watch had been kept here for the possibility that Makeley might appear after his escape. Smith said the robber identified as Makeley apparently was familiar with the members of the bank's staff.

Five years ago Makeley was captured while working here and charged with complicity in a Hammond, Ind., bank robbery. He later was charged with a bank holdup in Lawrence county, O., but was taken to Indiana where he was convicted and sentenced to the Michigan City prison.

56 DEAD AS BLAZE TRAPS MEN IN PARK

outward from its center. In a few seconds the approximately 1,500 men who had entered the canyon were scrambling up its steep sides.

The cowpath became a line of fighting, sweltering, cursing, praying humanity. The strong clambered over the weak. With death crackling at their heels, the workmen struggled upward.

Survivors said the flames jumped as high as 100 feet at the time, catching up and bringing down the struggling men.

The men died in twos, suffocated by the walls of smoke that rolled over them or struck down by flames which leaped as much as 100 feet at a time.

One gruesome pair had almost reached the canyon's rim. One of the two, a stalwart, had been pushing his fellow struggler upward when the blaze cut them down.

Always they were side by side, these pairs, when the end came. And always their backs were arched, with heads up-thrown and eye sockets staring grotesquely at the canyon's rim.

Workers Objected

While a crew of men stood on high ground, arguing against their foreman's command that they rush to a lower level to aid a squad fighting flames, the fire at the lower point spurted into a sudden new fury and engulfed a dozen workers.

This story was told by Michael Fernandez.

"Our foreman orders us to go to the lower level," he said. "Some one shouted 'no.' While we were arguing a sheet of flame leaped up and covered the lower crew. A few seconds later the flames receded. The whole party below was dead."

In another section H. N. Claypool, a foreman, had a second to make a decision. He made it—and saved the lives of a score of men.

"I started to take my men into the path of the blaze to clear a break," Claypool said. "Something told me to hesitate. I gave the order to halt. In an instant a whirlpool of flame whipped across the spot where we would have been had we gone ahead. Eight men in a squad just beyond us were trapped. It was all over in an instant."

Probe Ordered

The men were pick and shovel workers, recruited from all walks of life in the Reconstruction Finance Corp.-Los Angeles county move to combat unemployment with park work. They were working on the roads of the park, largest in the Los Angeles recreational system, when they were ordered into the ravine and told to beat the fire out with the shovels and cut a fire break.

Mayor Frank L. Shaw ordered a thorough investigation of the circumstances which caused so great a toll to be taken. He said if carelessness or negligence are found to be the blame the city will cooperate with the county in fixing the responsibility. He promised also that the city will provide relief for the families of the victims.

The fire swept over 1,000 acres of uninhabited land thickly stubbed with brush before it was controlled by hundreds of firemen and some 3,000 drafted workers.

It spread rapidly with the aid of the customary afternoon wind from the ocean and a temperature of 91 degrees, the hottest October day in Los Angeles in nearly half a century.

This rugged country, sometimes the scene of motion pictures calling for such a setting, is about 10 miles from down town Los Angeles.

JUVENILE GRANGE SCORES 94 POINTS

Deputy Matron Conducts Annual Grand Prairie Inspection.

Grand Prairie Juvenile grange scored 97 points in the annual inspection conducted last night by Deputy Matron Mrs. E. A. Williams. The meeting was held at the Grand Prairie school building.

Degree work was conferred on a class of candidates, with Miss Enid Hickman in charge of the tableaux. A program consisted of piano selections by Ethel Marie Owings and John Dean, recitations by Louise Hinamon, Margaret Davidson and Donna Noblet, a reading by Charlotte Ann Davidson and a vocal solo by Dorothy Foos. Miss Audrey Williams and Mrs. John Barkley were guests. Refreshments were served in a social hour.

ature garden filled with hardy and seasonable shrubbery and flowers arranged around a pathway and garden gate, which occupies a corner of the auditorium near the stage.

New Recipes.

Mrs. Campbell brought many new and interesting recipes to her class this year and her demonstration yesterday included spoon bread, fruit torte, meat loaf, brown sugar squares, cheese balls, graham apple muffins and potato pastry for meat pies. In addition she demonstrated the laundering of sweaters, hosiery and other garments which require careful and frequent launderings.

Mrs. Campbell punctuated her cooking demonstrations with a detailed lecture on the why and wherefores of her work and in addition dropped many hints and suggestions in regard to the preparation of the dishes and their contents.

Corn meal, camouflaged as spoon bread, proved a tempting dish when taken from the oven and an appetizing fruit torte, turned out to be the answer to what to serve for afternoon tea, dinner or evening party. A loaf of bread concealed a meat loaf around which may be built a substantial family meal and brown sugar squares answered the question of something dainty for lunch box or dessert.

Her suggestions included meat sauces made from canned soups and she offered as a "saver" for bread a combination dish of egg plant and bread crumbs. Boil egg plant, she told her audience, pull apart with a fork and alternate a layer of eggplant and bread crumbs in casserole. Cover with milk and bake until brown.

Urges Combinations

Mrs. Campbell urged the women to try combinations of meat, telling them that round steaks, veal and hamberger were dry and required a richer combination to make them more appetizing. Four meat days, two fish days and one meatless day were suggested by her as a balanced meat diet.

Helpful and timely suggestions and answers were given out by Mrs. Campbell during the period devoted to the question box. At the close of the lecture the women were invited to the stage to inspect the dishes made in the demonstrations and also to see the kitchen equipment and other displays.

Today's menu includes Shepherd's pie, yellow gems, royal chocolate pie, chocolate filling, pineapple fritters, tomato and shrimp salad and jam cake.

GREATER PUBLICITY URGED BY BANKER

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—Greater publicity on the operations of banks and corporations was recommended to senate investigators today by Clarence Dillon as a protection to the investing public.

Disclosing that Dillon, Read & Co. is considering quarterly portfolio statements, the New York banker said investors would be in a better position to judge the value of securities if corporations would give out more of their business statistics.

Not only would such publication of information protect the investor, he asserted, but would steady the market and prevent "violent fluctuations through pool operations."

Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, developed yesterday that United States and Foreign Securities Corp. was organized by an investment of $25,000,000 by the public and $5,100,000 by the company, and that later a second trust, the United States and International Investment Corp. was organized with $50,000,000 invested by the public and $10,000,000 by the first company.

HEARING NEXT WEEK FOR OUSTED OFFICER

Definite Date in Wren Case Not Yet Named by City Officials.

A public hearing on dismissal charges against John Wren, former city patrolman, will be held early next week, City Solicitor Carter M. Patton announced today.

The date has not been definitely announced pending a final decision by Solicitor Patton and Safety Director Emery M. Murphy as to whether they are required to file a specification of charges against Wren, as requested by the former patrolman in an appeal filed several weeks ago.

Solicitor Patton, who is representing Mr. Murphy, said there is some question as to whether the safety director is legally required to file a specification of charges on which Wren was dismissed, should suffice, Mr. Patton said, until the actual hearing starts.

The hearing will be held before the city civil service commission. It probably will be held in the municipal court room in the city building. By law, the hearing must be held within 30 days of the filing of an appeal. This 30-day period will expire Oct. 11, officials said.

GRANGE INSPECTED BY COUNTY DEPUTY

E. A. Williams, county deputy, conducted the annual inspection at the meeting of Grand Prairie grange last night at the school building. A grade of 88½ per cent was given the grange.

Charles Holt was named to arrange for the purchase of a new curtain for the grange hall. Announcement was made of the basket picnic to be held at Mt. Olive grange hall Oct. 11.

A saxophone number was played by Dorothy Hite accompanied by Kathleen Baer and a discussion on the selection of seed corn was led by William S. Wilson. A humorous discussion was given by William Price. Miss Ruby Williams sang a solo, Mrs. P. Boganwright gave a reading and Mrs. Elmer Myers presented an original story. A reading by Miss Ruth Ellen Overly, a talk on the World's fair by Martin Verberg and a solo by Dorothy Hite closed the program.

LABOR PROPOSES TO SPEED PUBLIC WORKS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—Eight national and international unions proposed today that the American Federation of Labor convention appeal to President Roosevelt for speedier spread of the public works program or removal of the officials in charge of it.

Their resolution said that "through the laxity or the inefficiency of those entrusted with the expenditure" of the $3,300,000,000 public works fund, thousands of industrial workers "are in suffering and want" and added:

"Resolved that this convention appeal to the President for the removal of those public officials who either through their laxity or their inefficiency are responsible for much of the present unemployment unless those now in charge can show their willingness to carry out the intent of congress."

IMPROVING

Marked improvement in the condition of Ray Smart of Nelson street, was reported today. He began to show improvement about 4 p. m. yesterday and at 9:30 last night passed the crisis. The accident occurred Sunday night at the home.

Tablet Honoring World War Vets Unveiled Here

Tribute Paid Soldiers by D. A. R. State President in Ceremonies at Harding Memorial.

Tribute was paid veterans of the World war by Mrs. Asa Messenger of Xenia, state president of the Daughters of the American Revolution at the unveiling of the bronze tablet placed on the boulder across from the Harding memorial on Marion-Delaware road yesterday afternoon.

The unveiling of the tablet was a feature of the Central district conference of D. A. R.'s at which members of Captain William Henricks chapter were hostesses yesterday at Hotel Harding. The boulder was placed by the Iowa chapter as a memorial to World war veterans some time ago.

"The World war veterans fought for the same country the same as the soldiers of the Revolutionary war," Mrs. Messenger said. The response to the toast was made by C. V. Dunbar of Reid McGinnis Post No. 562. The tablet was unveiled by Jay Marsh Jr., son of Mrs. Jay H. Marsh, regent of the hostess chapter. Prayer was offered by E. L. Smith, chaplain of the Legion post and the bugle call and taps were sounded by Robert Hensel. An impressive part of the program was the singing of "In Flanders Fields" by Mrs. Clarence L. Ruther ford. Mrs. J. L. Hoover was in charge of the program.

More than 200 persons attended the ceremony including families and friends of World war veterans.

Reports of officers and regents took up the session Tuesday morning. Mrs. Victor E. Dombaugh and Mrs. R. O. Bressler entertained with a piano duet, "Valse Arabesque." Covers were placed for 165 at the luncheon.

The 1934 district meeting will be held at Columbus with members of Ann Simpson Davis chapter, of which Miss Amanda Thomas is regent, as hostesses. The members accepted an invitation from Mrs. Stewart R. Rolin chapter of Columbus to attend a birthday party honoring the anniversary of Mrs. Russell William Magna of Washington, president general, Nov. 15.

the United Mine Workers of America.

Led by three "insurgent" local union chiefs, a crowd of Fayette and Greene county coal diggers at a mass meeting yesterday shouted down district leaders and greeted with loud "noes," Governor Gifford Pinchot's plea that they end the walkout begun three weeks ago.

Refuse To Work

Vociferously, they asserted they would remain on strike and use the weapon of picketing to keep mines closed until the H. C. Frick Coke company specifically recognizes the U. M. W. A.

Between 20,000 and 25,000 men went back to work in mines in Cambria, Indiana and Somerset counties, east of Pittsburgh in the face of threats from the Fayette miners to picket these collieries.

The decent of pickets upon Ambridge came as a sequel to similar movements in Clairton, Pa., home of the Carnegie Steel company, and at the Weirton, W. Va., Clarksburg, W. Va., and Steubenville, O., plants of the Weirton Steel company.

The Ambridge picketing centered about the Spang Chalfant company, the National Electric Products company, the Central Tube company and the Wyckoff Drawn Steel company.

Police Supervise Picketing of Plant

By The Associated Press

STEUBENVILLE, O., Oct. 4—Strike pickets at the local plant of the Weirton Steel Co. were under the watchful eyes of a police detail today as the tension created yesterday by an uprising of 1,000 strikers began to slacken somewhat.

While authorities kept a close watch of the picket lines at the steel plant, where 10,000 workers are out, coal miners in southeastern Ohio began to reenter the mines, only 400 still refusing to report for work. About 600 have returned.

Jack Reese, union leader, said the men who created the disturbance yesterday, which was quelled by a barrage of tear gas bombs, had heard reports that workers were being transported into the mill by the Weirton company.

O. S. U. History Professor Is Federation Speaker

DECLARING this to be a wonderful time in which to live so far as the historical development of the world is concerned, George Washburne, professor of history at Ohio State university, presented a vivid picture of the political and economic status of countries taking part in the world peace program in an address last night before the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs. He spoke on "The Historical Significance of Our Age."

The meeting held in the recreational room of the First Presbyterian church opened the 1933-34 season of the organization. The program was sponsored by the Round Table club with Mrs. Howard Geer as program chairman. Completing the program were two groups of pleasing vocal numbers by Mrs. Clarence L. Rutherford, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Bird Jacoby. She sang "Mid-October," "An Old Violin" and "Autumn."

Short Business Session

Preceding the program hour Mrs. Grover C. Snyder, president of the federation, conducted a short business session. Mrs. E. W. Warwick gave a report of the Central district convention held last week at Mt. Vernon. Mrs. E. G. Roberts was named correspondent secretary to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Mrs. C. E. Turney, who moved to Columbus. Mrs. George G. Lippincott will succeed Mrs. Paul Knauss as assistant treasurer and Mrs. V. H. Barnes was named assistant financial secretary. Mrs. Ferne West, program chairman announced the November program would be sponsored by the Research club. Miss Grace Kunz gave a short talk on the Lecture-Recital club program.

Mrs. Snyder announced the federation broadcasts over WOSU for each Tuesday morning this month at 10 o'clock. Next Tuesday Harlan Hatcher of the English department of Ohio State university will discuss "Contemporary Literature." October 17 Dr. Ben Arneson of Ohio Wesleyan university will talk on "Political Science." October 24 the speaker will be Gordon Hayes of Ohio State university, whose subject will be "Current Economic Problems." The last Tuesday of the month Mrs. Depew Head of Columbus, will give a book review. Friday, Oct. 30 at 8:30 o'clock in the evening a fine arts program will be presented over the station under the auspices of the state federation.

Professor Washburne declared the late Sir Edward Gray to be one of the greatest personage if history but when he died he stated, the saw the things for which he stood crumble about him. He saw the question of peace questioned, saw the futility of the things for which he stood, saw Germany in the hands of a more autocratic government and they with more thoroughly divided in militarism than ever the Kaiser dreamed of.

"The word peace is paradoxical," Professor Washburne stated, "for while peace is on peace preparations are going forward for war." He explained the policies of the Versailles treaty and said that at present we have two groups of powers definitely set against each other one determined to keep the Versailles treaty and the other determined to set aside the provisions of the treaty.

Mr. Washburne referred to the future as an age of transition and predicted that we were on the threshold of one of the great periods of historical significance.

Homemaker's Question Box

Question—I have a shelf attached to a window sill in my living room. I place plants on this shelf and occasionally water drains from the flower pots onto the shelf and sometimes drips onto the floor. Is there any way to avoid the annoyance of too much water?

Answer—A metal pan, the sides of which are from ½ to 1 inch deep, may be built to fit the shelf. Then fit a molding around pan and shelf. The sides of the pan will prevent the water from dripping on the floor.

The space below the shelf may be more useful if a simple cabinet is built below, with drawers or shelves. These may hold books or magazines or children's toys when not in use. Such a shelf and cabinet can be painted or finished like the wood trim or walls in the room. It is more useful and attractive than the unsatisfactory shelf, and costs but little for the materials.

RUMFORD BAKING POWDER is accepted by the Committee on Foods of the American Medical Association.

ALL good baking powders leaven, some better than others. All have ingredients sanctioned by law, and must maintain certain standards in manufacture. But RUMFORD the pure all-phosphate BAKING POWDER has certain definite characteristics which only a pure all-phosphate baking powder can have. One of the most important is that Rumford adds calcium and phosphates to food wherever it is used, either in baking or in general cooking.

As all housewife-cooks know, this is very important, especially in the diet of young children.

"I think you dropped this bill. The nurse asked me to give it to you."

Nesta glanced at it, frowned, and crushed it in her hand.

"Thank you—you needn't have troubled; it didn't matter."

"Oh, but I was coming to see you anyhow."

"You were coming to see me? What for?"

Caroline stayed silent. Her feeling of success drained away. She felt as if she were on the edge of saying something very important. Once she had said it, she would not be able to take it back. Yet she must say it. Only what it was that she must say she did not really know.

Then she said it.

"Where's Jim?"

Nesta's hand closed hard upon the crumpled bill. Jim wasn't here, thank goodness. It was no more than 10 minutes since he had barged out of the house. Jim! She'd teach other women to come after her husband. She repeated the name in a most offensive voice.

"Jim?"

Caroline colored brightly.

"Mrs. Riddell—please—I must see him because I think he is my cousin, Jim Randal. The nurse said—"

"What does she know about it? He's my husband."

"Are you sure?"

Nesta laughed angrily.

"What do you suppose?"

"The nurse said—"

"And I say, what does she know about it?"

"Please let me speak. The nurse said there was a piece of letter in his pocket with the signature Caroline. I'm Caroline, and I sent him a letter signed like that, so you see—"

NESTA'S manner changed. She smoothed away her frown and said in her best company manner:

"It's a pity you've had so much trouble for nothing. The letter was from a Miss Caroline Bussell, who is a cousin of mine."

Dejection flowed in upon Caroline like a fog. It all came out so pat—Miss Caroline Bussell—a cousin of mine . . . . She couldn't have invented a name like Caroline Bussell all in one flashing instant.

She lifted her head as if to get above the fog and asked:

"Have you got the letter here?"

"No, I haven't. I don't keep old torn bits of paper."

"If I could have seen it—" said Caroline very earnestly. She was pressing her hands together, palm to palm, and finger to finger. Her eyes under her little brown tweed cap, the bright clear brown of pearly water, gazed pleadingly at Nesta. Her hair was the same bright color.

Nesta did not answer in words. She smiled a little.

"If you would lend me a pencil—if I could write my name—you'd know if it was the same."

"Do you think I don't know my own husband?" said Nesta.

What did one say to that—what could one say? Of course she must know her own husband. Caroline's hope was a pricked bubble. She had made a fool of herself to a woman with a rasping voice and eyes like bits of tin.

She began to go slowly toward the door. She was wearing a loose brown tweed coat. She hugged it round her as if she were cold.

Nesta stood aside to let her pass, but just on the threshold Caroline turned, her color changing brightly.

"Have you got a photograph of your husband?"

"No. I haven't."

"Not even a snapshot?"

"I've said no, haven't I?"

Caroline rested her hand upon the jamb of the door. Something in her would not take Nesta's no; she couldn't tell why. Eager words came hurrying to her lips.

"Mrs. Riddell—I don't feel as if I could go away without seeing him. Won't you try and understand how I feel about it? It's such a strong feeling—I can't shake it off. If I go away like this, I shall keep on thinking about him, and about my letter—the one I wrote and signed Caroline. And I shall keep on thinking, 'Suppose it was Jim.' But if I were to see him, I should know."

The hard color rose in Nesta's cheeks.

"Are you calling me a liar" she said. "Because if you are, I've had enough. Jim Riddell's my husband, and I've got my marriage lines to prove it. I don't know who you are, and I don't care. Calling yourself a chap's cousin's as good a way of getting off as any other—and you may be one of Jim's girls, or you may be touched in the head. But this is my brother's house and I can do with your room instead of your company—coming here after another woman's husband and giving me the lie about him to my face! Let me tell you that you'll not see him, not if you were to stay here all day. He's got something better to do than sit about at home waiting for his lady friends to drop in. He's got our keep to earn and a job to go to. And I'll thank you to be off out of this."

Caroline's hand dropped from the door. She looked taller. She was pale.

She said, "Good morning, Mrs. Riddell," and walked out of the house and down the gravel path to the car.

NESTA RIDDELL had time to wonder what had happened to Jim during the hours that followed. When at last an uncertain step sounded on the gravel path, she ran to the door, anxiety flaring into anger.

"Where have you been?" she began, and then stopped as he lurched past her into the parlor.

She thought at first that he was drunk, but it was fatigue that sent him reeling to the nearest chair.

"Where have you been?" she repeated. "You look all in. What d'you want to go walking about till you're fit to drop? Six hours you've been gone, and you couldn't have had a bite or a drop, because you hadn't a copper on you. Hold on and I'll get you something—Min's got a kettle on."

She brought him cold meat and vegetables and a cup of strong tea, and followed up the meat with bread and cheese. When he had eaten and she had taken the things away, she came back and looked at him sharply.

"Been bit of a fool, haven't you? What d'you want to go flinging off like that? You've been ill, you know—and you get up out of bed and go walking about for the best part of seven hours on an empty stomach! Batty, I call it!"

He was lying back in one of the red and blue chairs, his face sharpened, his eyes fixed and heavy. He had the look of an exhaustion which was something more than physical. His body had moved mechanically while thoughts which he could not out-distance pursued and threatened him.

They drove him, and he was driven without hope of escape. He did not know where he had been; only as he lifted the latch and felt his feet upon the new gravel Tom Williams had laid down, fatigue came upon him like an insupportable weight. The food had done him good. Now there was a dullness on him. It was like the fog. He frowned at the recollection of the fog.

"You'd better get to bed," said Nesta briskly.

And presently he was in bed and sinking, sinking down, into the depths of sleep.

To Be Continued.

Given in Marriage

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge senses that Major Grantland is to be the object of a matrimonial campaign upon the part of Avis Arlen and her mother.

IN my teaching days I had to determine the mental attitude of others from their facial expressions, and since my marriage I have tried to keep the little skill I possess in that line from rusting.

Rarely, however, have I seen a feminine face so easy to read as was that of Fanny Arlen, when she finally savored the full flavor of what Philip Veritzen was telling her concerning the eligibility of Hugh Grantland.

Despite her voluble protests against Mr. Veritzen's remark that Hugh was the "answer to a maiden's prayer, socially and financially," her assertion that she would never wish her "precious little girl" to marry a man 20 years older than herself, and her avowal that her "darling Avis must wed only for love," it was easy to see in her face and manner that the idea of such a brilliant matrimonial alliance for her child had taken a strong hold upon her imagination.

Resentment

It was furious at myself that I could discover in my soul no amusement at my discovery. Annoyance, resentment at what seemed to me the presumption of the woman, disgust at her willingness to have her child marry a man so much older just because he was wealthy and socially prominent—these were the emotions I discovered were mine, emotions of which I was distinctly ashamed.

For I could not deceive myself. It was not the discovery of Mrs. Arlen's mercenary traits which had upset me. If the man under discussion had been a stranger to me, I should not have felt any emotion save a faintly scornful amusement. But the knowledge that Hugh Grantland was to be the object of a matrimonial campaign upon the part of Avis Arlen and her mother had suddenly roused a feeling within me that I told myself it behooved me to analyze.

There was no time now for introspection, however. I knew instinctively that I must be on my guard from this minute on. All my little world knew of Hugh's long and unrequited devotion to me. Every eye in that world would be watching me to see my reaction to the campaign of Avis Arlen and her mother.

I did not deceive myself. Such a campaign would be staged as soon as Mrs. Arlen had the opportunity to tell Avis of the wealth possessed by Hugh Grantland, and it would be a determined one. I had had experience of Avis Arlen's tenacity in trying to accomplish an objective, and, looking sharply at the girl's mother, I saw that beneath her soft roundness, she had the thin lips and the jutting chin signifying the resolute tenacity which permits nothing, not even scruples, to stand in its way.

Made-to-order Victim

Of course, I had no idea that Hugh, in the parlance of our youngsters, would "fall for" Avis Arlen. I knew that if he did not actively dislike the girl, she at least filled him with a contemptuous weariness.

But hugh is singularly unworldly. I know no man less fitted to cope with a woman bent upon marrying him, and with no scruples as to her methods. Chivalrous, high-minded, generous, unsuspecting, he was a made-to-order victim for an ambitious woman.

But my hands were tied, as far as aiding him was concerned, no matter what meshing entanglement surrounded him. Once, long ago, with the aid of Lillian and Lee Chow, I had saved Hugh from both actual death and the living death of being declared insane. But I could not help him now.

I had aided Noel to escape the clutching hands of Avis Arlen, but I could not lift my finger to aid Hugh, without giving tongue to scandal.

The Stars Say

For Thursday, Oct. 5.

THE LUNAR configurations bearing rule on the events of this day must be interpreted as of negative influence, giving much scope for individual initiative and enterprise. Much depends upon the alert and decisive method of meeting an element of fraud, treachery and misrepresentation in business as well as in purely private affairs, where this sinister spirit of intrigue or conspiracy may produce anxiety. Be particularly cautious in signing letters and contracts.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which a great deal depends on their own clever initiative, supported by vigilance in the matter of intrigue with treachery, fraud or misrepresentation, this subtlety producing unrest and vexation in private associations as well as in business. Sign writings carefully.

A child born on this day may be quick, ready of speech and act, but disposed to resort to expediency rather than principle in its dealings and conduct.

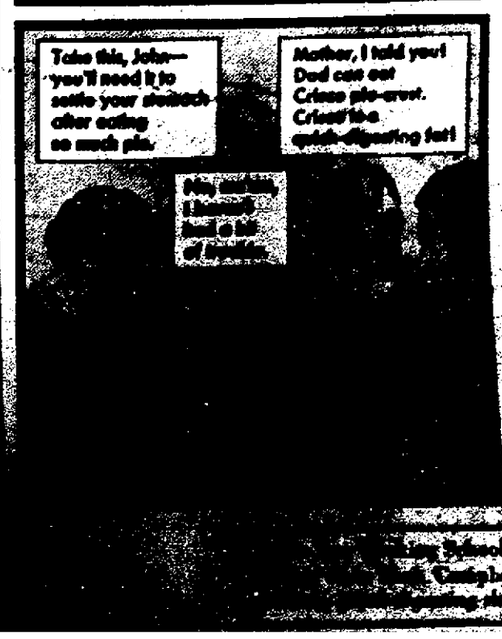
Cook with CRISCO—it digests quickly

Anne, why'd you buy Crisco? I have plenty of my shortening on hand.
Oh, Mother, I want to make rhubarb pie for Dad tonight—he loves it!
MOTHER SCOLDS ANNE

You know your father has indigestion when he eats pie.
But, Mother, the shortening may be the trouble. In cooking class today, Miss Abbott told us Crisco is often used in diets because it's so wholesome.



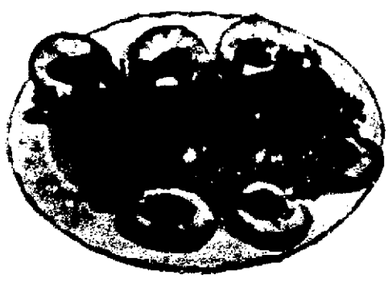
Take this, John—you'll need it to settle your stomach after eating so much pie.
Mother, I told you! Dad can eat Crisco pie-crust. Crisco's the quick-digesting fat!

You don't need to take the joy out of eating in order to protect your digestion. You can gladly say "yes" to wholesome Crisco pies and crispy Crisco-fried foods! Yes, they can be good for you—because Crisco is the digestible vegetable shortening that doesn't over-burden your stomach.

Most every day something is fried in your house. Is it grease-soaked and hard to digest—or is it brown and crispy the way Crisco-fried foods are? Crisco can be heated higher—so it seals food quickly in toasty brown—which prevents fat from soaking into the food. That's why Crisco-fried foods digest quickly!

But let your common sense tell you. Look at Crisco—see how it piles up like thick country cream on a spoon! Taste its sweetness. Why, there's nothing like Crisco, because Crisco is made from digestible vegetable oils by its own secret process!

When you buy Crisco, look for the familiar blue-and-white label. Crisco's vacuum-sealed can is a health-protection to you.



YANKEE HASH

Melt Crisco in frying pan. Add onion. Brown slightly. (Crisco is a digestible frying fat.) Mix other ingredients. Add to onions. Mix thoroughly. Turn spread out evenly. Cook slowly. As bottom browns, keep lifting and turning it in, so that crusty bits are worked through hash. Just before removing from skillet, fold hash over like an omelet. Serve with—

Fried Apple Rings: Select 3 or 4 large perfect cooking apples. Cut into ½ inch slices. Core. Melt 2 tablespoons Crisco in skillet. When hot, add apple rings. Fry on both sides until golden brown. Sprinkle with powdered sugar. Add cinnamon with it.

Crisco is the registered trademark of a digestible manufactured by the Procter & Gamble Co.

Giants Surprise Senators with Heavy Hitting Attack

SENATORS CONFIDENT DESPITE SETBACK AT HANDS OF HUBBELL

"We'll Take The Rest of Them," Cronin Scouts Declare After Losing.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—Carl Owen Hubbell today was no less the topic of the most feverish World series debate than he was before he stepped out and checked the Senators in the opening game before an unexpectedly big crowd of nearly 47,000 cash customers in the Polo grounds. Even the most rabid Washington rooters admitted Hubbell's greatness under fire, his courage and control in a closing series of difficult situations.

Two graybeads of baseball, John Honus Wagner and John Joseph McGraw, brought together memories of the rare old days as they put their arms around each other's shoulders in the corner of a room filled with Giant enthusiasts.

To McGraw, Wagner is still the greatest all-around ball player of all time. To John Honus, McGraw is still the shrewdest manager of them all. They were unanimous too, that Hubbell is the best pitcher to carry the National league banner into the World series since Christy Mathewson was in his prime.

"They have qualities in common," suggested McGraw, referring to the man he regards as the foremost pitcher of all time and the Oklahoma southpaw who started his career under Mac. "Hubbell has Matty's coolness. He didn't become flustered when things went against him in the last two innings yesterday. He is unquestionably a very great pitcher and he gives the Giants a big advantage in a short series."

It was altogether a pleasant day for McGraw, who saw two of his prize pupils, Hubbell and Mel Ott, furnish the main essentials to the Giants' opening victory and the first National league triumph in a World series game since 1931. Ott came to McGraw eight years ago, as a 16-year-old Louisiana youngster, recommended by a close friend of the Giant chieftain. "Little Mel" caught Mac's fancy as a hitter and still does. His "four for four" yesterday tied a World series record.

The Senators came so close to snatching victory, in spite of Hubbell, that they have lost little of their confidence in "taking" the Giants.

"Hubbell's great but we will take the rest of the Giant staff and take him the next time," volunteered one of the Washington scouts. "You can't stop a team of hitters like our club very long. They simply could not produce the hits in the pinches yesterday. Why look at that ninth—three on, none out, and nobody could get the ball out of the infield! We give the credit to Hubbell but it won't happen again."

German experts are experimenting with an attachment by means of which written messages may be sent over telephone wires in addition to sounds.

EQUIPOISE TO MEET AUSTRALIAN HORSE

Whitney Accepts Challenge To Pit American Champ Against Winooka.

By The Associated Press

LAUREL, MD., Oct. 4.—Jamestown, George D. Widener's five-year-old which has won his two races since returning last month from retirement, was sought today to test the ability of Winooka, the Australian horse, for a match race with Equipoise, the American champion, for a purse of $10,000 to $25,000.

The Jamestown-Winooka race was being arranged by Andrew J. Cummings, president of Organization operating Laurel park, for the track's program between October 18 and 21.

The match race between the Australian horse and the American champion, was set for the united hunts on Nov. 7 at Belmont park by Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, owner of Equipoise in accepting the challenge of the Rufe Naylor, manager of Winooka.

Equipoise was scheduled for retirement after his race last Saturday at Havre De Grace, but Whitney was willing to send his five-year-old son of Pennant to the post again, believing a match race "would be a fine sporting event and would be welcomed by the followers of the turf."

CUBS AND SOX OPEN SERIES IN CHICAGO

Windy City Teams Start Twentieth Municipal Title Quest.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 4—The White Sox and Cubs renew their municipal baseball feud today in the first game of the city series at Wrigley field.

Like the World series, the city title will be awared on a basis of four victories. It is the twentieth series between the North and South siders, the Sox having won 12 of the previous meetings. One ended in a tie.

Manager Charlie Grimm's Cubs have been made the betting favorite because the team is well fortified with good pitching in which the Sox are sadly lacking.

Grimm elected Guy Bush, winner of 20 games this year in the National league pennant race, to start today's contest. While Manager Lew Fonseca of the Sox refused to name his starting hurler, it was likely that he would use Sad Sam Jones, winner of 10 games this year.

TERRYMEN AMAZE EXPERTS BY ASSAULT ON THREE NAT PITCHERS IN OPENER

Hubbell Complete Master on Mound, Striking Out Ten Men.

BY EDWARD J. NEIL

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK Oct. 4 Prowling about the bases on legs made today by Joseph Edward Cronin the lantern jawed young leader of the Washington Senators rallying his forces for the start of the World series and keeping a sharp lookout for rosin flows who told him Bill Terry's Giants couldn't hit

It was probably less fun than he'd care to admit that Carl Hubbell, the lanky screw ball king of the National league pitchers, struck out 10 of his mates, batsmen and allowed but five singles, as the Giants raced away with the opening clash of the annual inter-league battle 4 to 2.

But there was plenty to amaze him, and with him the American league experts who conceded the pitching mastery of the Giant staff but laughed lightly at the mention of their attacking power.

Crowder To Pitch

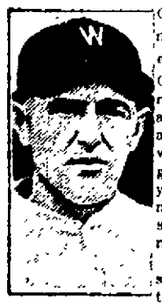
There was a major change in the tone of all concerned today a



Cronin definitely nominated "General" Alvin Crowder his right hand star and wheel horse all season, to work the second game against young Hal Schumacher, Terry's second game nomination.

With the series shifting tonight to Washington for games there Thursday, Friday and Saturday before returning here for games Sunday and Monday if seven are necessary, it behooved Cronin to get his best in the "furstest" from now on before it suddenly becomes too late.

Headed by Mel Ott, the young right fielder John McGraw picked out of a high school in Gretna, La., eight years ago, the Giants ruined Cronin's pitching strategy by belting Lefty Wally Stewart from the ball game in the third inning, touched right handed Jack Russell for four hits in five frames, and then subsided against the veteran Al Thomas in their last turn at bat. By that time, however, it didn't matter what the Giants did offensively.

All they needed to do had been done by this young fellow named Ott, who took over offensive honors with four straight hits, a home run and three singles that drove in three runs, in a manner to shame the great sluggers of the American league champions.

It was a strange kind of a picture for the crowd of 46,672 that all but filled the sun-drenched Polo grounds. Between Ott and Hubbell the Giants won, and there were times when the rest looked to be winning despite themselves.

For despite Hubbell's marvelous manipulation of a screw ball that nicked the corners, dove and died, and a curve that crossed the plate with a break of a couple of feet in between his fast one and change of pace, the vaunted defense of the Giants failed them twice and but for Hubbell might have brought defeat.

Once the devastating Ott pumped his home run belt into the right field stands in the opening inning after the first of Buddy Myer's three errors at second base, equalling the record for one series game, had put Joe Moore on first waiting for a ride home. Hubbell had all the runs he usually needs.

The long-armed Oklahoman with the spraddle feet fanned Myer, Leon (Goose) Goslin and Heinie Manush, the first three men to face him. Then he went on from there at only a trifle slower pace, until there came the two occasions when, if he were to get his shutout, he needed a normally tight defense. First little Hughey Critz, the Mississippian at second base in the fourth, then John (Blondy) Ryan, the Worcester man at short, messed things up behind him in the ninth. In each inning the Senators scored a run.

As a matter of fact, while the

THE HERO AND THE GOAT

BUDDY MYER, SENATORS. MEL OTT, GIANTS.

Every World series ball game has its heroes and its goats. The first game of the 1933 classic yesterday between the Giants and Senators was no exception. To "Little Mel" Ott, rightfielder for the Giants goes the honor of being the hero. The pitching of the Senators was no puzzle to Ott as he slammed out four hits in four trips to the plate to equal a world record for hits in a single World series game. His first hit was a home run in the first inning, scoring Joe Moore ahead of him. Altogether, he batted in three of the four Giant runs, enough to have won the ball game. Pictured in the inset is Buddy Myer, the goat of the opener. The Washington second sacker booted three records, also equalling a world's record for single game World series play.

Giants were hitting in typical Senators' form, the Senators got their runs on what have come to be called "typical Giant rallies" through a season in which the breaks never failed the Terriers.

Goose Goslin Fails

For instance in the fourth, Myer led off with an infield single but Goslin, hero of the 1924 series between the same teams, grounded out. Hubbell had Manush under control until Critz started kicking Heinie's grounder around. Manush was safe and instead of Joe Cronin grounding out to end the inning, He merely forced Manush at second Myer scoring.

Carl set the Senators down in order through the next three innings, but he tired a bit in the eighth, gave the only two walks of the game to Luke Sewell and Sheriff Harris, the latter pinch hitting for Russell, and had two on with one out. Ryan got one man for him by forcing Harris at second after bobbling Myer's grounder, recovering just in time to shove the ball into Critz's glove.

About that time Goslin was making threatening gestures at the plate. He belted one pitch into right field but it was foul. He was looking very dangerous. Finally he caught an outside pitch on the nose and smashed it toward right field, about 15 feet inside the foul line. But Bill Terry nailed the ball with his gloved hand as it was sailing by and that uprising was over.

Trouble rose so high in the ninth that old 'Dolf Luque was out in the bull pen, desperately warming up, before it was over and the Giant victory clinched.

Ryan Messes Play

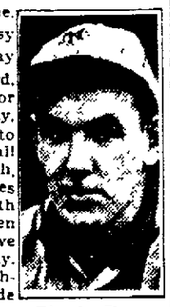
Ryan started this one by mauling Manush's easy grounder Cronin tossed a single into the rally and Schulte banged a ball down the third base line. With an easy force-out play waiting at third, and a chance for a double play, Jackson failed to handle the ball cleanly, lost both, and the bases were filled with none out when there might have been two away. The second Washington run rode home as Joe Kuhel grounded out to Ryan, whereupon Hubbell took charge again, fanned Ossie Bluege for the third time, and got Sewell on an easy bounder to Jackson.



Blondy Ryan

The rally that finished Stewart in the third was brief and to the point. In succession, Critz, Terry and Ott banged singles into right center, Hughey scoring on Mel's hit. Stewart was taken out and Russell took his place but after he fanned George Davis who got two singles and two strikeouts, Travis Jackson's infield out scored Terry.

Betting Odds Favor Giants

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK Oct. 4—A shift in betting odds today had established the New York Giants as favorites to win the World series.

After the Giants had won yesterday's opening game, Broadway commissioners quoted 10 to 7 on the Giants to win the series as compared with the 6 to 5 price offered before the series began with Washington favored.

Even money was quoted for today's game with Hal Schumacher opposing Alvin Crowder on the mound.

Columbus Beats Buffalo 10-2 To Win Little World Series.

By The Associated Press

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 4 — The Little World series championship was in the hands of the Columbus Red Birds of the American Association today as the result of their five out of eight games victory over the Buffalo Bisons of the International league.

The Birds climaxed their drive to the title last night with a 10-2 victory in a game featured by the brilliant pitching of their tall right hander, Jim Winford. Winford allowed only five hits and struck out 11 Bisons.

The Bisons qualified for the series by defeating Baltimore and Rochester in the playoffs of their league after barely squeezing into the fourth qualifying position.

Krause Looms as Star of Current Irish Eleven

A-HEM
A POPULAR ALL-AMERICAN SELECTION FOR TWO YEARS AFTER BREAKING IN LIKE A COMET IN 1931
EDWARD "MOOSE" KRAUSE
-TACKLE-
NOTRE DAME
HEY! WHERE YA GOIN'?
HE'S CAPTAIN KRAUSE AND ALL AMERICAN CENTER TO THE NOTRE DAME BASKETBALL TEAM
HELLO PAL
ONE OF THE MOST SPECTACULAR TACKLES THE GAME HAS EVER KNOWN
—BISHOP—

Special to The Star

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Oct. 4 — While football writers and even Col. Hearrie (Hunk) Anderson, Notre Dame coach are talking of the fine veteran and sophomore material available for the 1933 Irish football team the fact of the matter is that Edward Walter (Moose) Krause left tackle is the only bona fide regular from 1932 on the squad.

Nick Lukats left halfback Steve Banas, fullback Ray Brancheau right halfback and Hugh Devore right end, alternated during part of last season with players who have not returned this year but none was considered taking the season as a whole a first team man.

Thirteen lettermen were lost by graduation. Several others will not be back. Al McGuff, who was being groomed for the quarterback post is not returning for reasons of his own. Dick Pfefferle, shock troop left tackle, received a shoulder injury which was aggravated when he was throwing the javelin last spring and will not play and Jack Robinson varsity center as a sophomore has an eye affection the result of an operation for cyst which may prevent his participation this fall.

Anderson Optimistic

But instead of a trip to the crying room Col. Anderson is letting his hopes for 1933 take him to the heights of optimism. He has seniors with experience for all positions except quarterback and left end.

He is especially pleased with his left tackle Ed Krause, who rose to fame in his second game as a sophomore. The game was the scoreless tie with Northwestern at Soldier Field, Chicago, in 1931. Krause made the headlines when he blocked a punt and recovered a fumble at crucial points. His rise from there on was meteoric.

He had come to Notre Dame with an almost incomparable high school reputation. All-American in basketball, all-city in baseball, and a star track man to boot at De LaSalle High school of Chicago was his record. He was captain of three sports.

After his early success in football, "The Moose" joined the basketball team. Four games had been played before he broke into the starting lineup. But he soon overtook the others and led the team in scoring by a wide margin. He was almost unanimously named all-American center.

Natural Adaptation

His monicker was a natural adaptation after one look at his prominent, crooked probiscus. But, encouraged by the name "Moose," he went further and mastered a moose call which he uttered during basketball games whenever there was a lull in the noise.

It was good for a laugh. Then he added it to his bag of tricks to make himself perhaps the most feared center in basketball today. He would take the ball on the pivot line, wheel, and start dribbling for the basket. Just at the point when it seemed most likely he was being fouled by his defensive opponent, his moose call would reverbrate through the gymnasium. The officials almost invariably called the foul simultaneously. In one game last year, "The Moose" sent two opposing center out on fouls and had three personals on the third man to face him.

His 6 feet 3 inches of height and 215 pounds qualify Krause as one of the giants of athletics. His unusual sped and agility in football make him probably the outstanding tackle in college football today, a distinction he has already held for two years.

JUST A REMINDER

A short time ago we announced to the public our new remedy Hepati Triticum and at that time a statement was made that this remedy would accomplish much for different types of sick people. As we considered it the best eliminant for auto-intoxication (self-poisoning) now sold Among many letters received during last week we are selecting one for publication from J. S. Kirby, prominent citizen of Marion.

LOWER'S PHARMACY,

Clifton Lower, Chemist.
Marion, Ohio.
Dear Mr. Lower:—
I suppose you remember me. I have been employed as a furniture salesman in Marion for 15 years. About two or three weeks ago, upon awakening in the morning I was suffering pain; calf of leg back of knee and unable to walk without severe pain and much limping. I was advised to try Hepatic Triticum as I thought my case to be internal poisoning. I can truthfully say, before one-half of bottle was taken I could walk perfectly and today at this writing am much improved and convinced that continued use of Hepatic Triticum will thoroughly clean up my Auto Intoxication.
Respectfully,
J. S. Kirby,

WHEAT SCORES BRISK GAINS

Strength Shown by Securities Reflects in Chicago Grain Pit Sales.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Oct. 4—Material upturns of wheat values took place early today, influenced by strength shown in securities. Advances were also at hand that estimates of European wheat import requirements were being enlarged. Opening with 1@1¼ cents higher, wheat later held near the initial limits. Corn started unchanged to ½ higher, and subsequently altered little.

Active buying on the part of commission houses lifted wheat afterward about two cents above yesterday's finish. Some of the buying was associated with hopes in various quarters that an address from President Roosevelt tonight would prove a market stimulus. Helping further to strengthen prices was continued notice taken of curtailment of domestic receipts of wheat.

Arrivals at United States primary points today totaled but 726,000 bushels, compared with 1,375,000 a year ago. Predictions of a new and fiercer outbreak of grasshoppers northwest in the coming season were also given attention. A comprehensive summary from railroad sources telling of domestic wheat crop prospects southwest was construed as bearish. Corn and oats prices borrowed firmness from wheat action.

Provisions were higher with grains, and responsive to an abrupt rise of hog values.

GOVERNOR OF ROTARY LOCAL CLUB SPEAKER

James G. Card of Cleveland Addresses Marion Group at Hotel.

James G. Card of Cleveland, governor of the twenty-first district of Rotary International, including Marion, addressed the Marion Rotary club last night at a dinner meeting in Hotel Harding.

The influence of Rotary work in international affairs and friendships was stressed by Mr. Card. He told of the early opposition of Hitler and Mussolini to Rotary and said that at one time they banned the club in their respective countries, Germany and Italy.

When they were given a full understanding of the club's objectives and work, Mr. Card said Hitler and Mussolini both welcomed Rotary to their countries. Now Rotary is making great strides in both Italy and Germany, Mr. Card said.

A full attendance greeted Mr. Card at the meeting here. Before the scheduled meeting, he conferred with the board of directors and committee chairman to discuss and outline politices for the rest of the club's year.

Next Tuesday, the weekly meeting again will be held at night, with members from Galion, Bucyrus, Mansfield and Delaware as guests. The dinner, in Hotel Harding, will start at 6:30 p. m., preceded by an afternoon of golf. Dr. F. E. Mahla is chairman of arrangements.

TO CHECK ATHLETIC FITNESS OF STUDENTS

All County School Pupils To Be Given Physicial Examination.

Arrangements to give a complete physical examination to every county school pupil, outside the city, planning to take part in athletics have been completed by Dr. N. Sifritt, county health commissioner, and Miss Alma Denney, acting county health nurse.

Basketball squads at Claridon and Caledonia schools have been examined, and schedules for giving examinations in the other schools are being worked out, Dr. Sifritt said.

The county health office and the county schools are requiring that all participants in athletics be physically fit and that they be vaccinated for smallpox and immunized, if not already protected, against diphtheria.

The examinations at Caledonia and Claridon schools, given to both boys and girls, have not ruled any pupil out of athletics, although some were advised to play only under supervision to avoid undue strain that might affect a physical weakness.

County Home Rule Move Backed by C. of C. Here

Educational Campaign Planned as Forerunner To Amendment Scheduled for Vote.

Organization of a committee to conduct an educational campaign for approval of the county home rule amendment to the state constitution, scheduled to be placed before voters in the Nov. 7 election has been undertaken by the Chamber of Commerce, W. D. Brown, manager, announced today.

Plans to set up the committee were announced after Mr. Brown had conferred with Charles L. Sherwood, field representative of the County Home Rule association of Columbus, who was in Marion yesterday.

The committee, to be made up of representatives of various organizations here, will be announced within a few days, Mr. Brown said. Speakers probably will be brought here during the educational campaign to explain in detail the provisions of the proposed amendment, he said.

Would Permit Changes

Mr. Sherwood, while in Marion, explained that the amendment, if passed, would permit a reorganization of county government, but would not force reorganization on any county that did not desire it.

He pointed out that Ohio counties spent $102,000,000 in 1930, the last year of normal government expenditures, which amounts to approximately $60 a family for the state as a whole. The cost of county government, he added, has grown almost three times as fast as the taxable wealth by which counties are supported. He quoted statistics showing that property tax levies, which furnish over two-thirds of the county revenues, increased from $15,000,000 to $61,000,000 from 1911 to 1930, a four-fold increase. County indebtedness mounted from $29,000,000 to $170,000,000 or nearly six-fold in 20 years, he said. In the same period, he continued, tax valuations increased only 115 per cent.

System Out of Date

"No part of our political system more completely disregards the principles of effective government organization than does the county, and yet, until recently, very little thought has been given to its reorganization," Mr. Sherwood said.

Commenting on the amendment, Mr. Brown this morning said he believed it would have little immediate effect on county government here, but that its passage would be a step toward eventual reorganization of the present plan of county government which, with all due respect to county office holders, is antiquated.

Recruits for Conservation Corps Must Be On Relief Lists.

A reminder that only young men who are or have been on the poor relief lists can go to reforestation army camps was given this morning by Dr. N. Sifritt, county health commissioner, and recruiting officer for this county.

This announcement was made after Dr. Sifritt had found only 12 eligible young men in the first 50 that filed applications to serve in forest camps. Most of the others were not and had not been on the relief roll here, he said.

"The forest army work was created primarily to relieve local relief agencies of as many young able-bodied men as possible, and we must recruit first those who have been on relief lists and who are willing to turn over $25 of their are available at his office and part of other members of their family," Dr. Sifritt explained.

He said that application blanks are available at his office and young men wishing to take advantage of the government's offer to take approximately 25 more men from his county should call at his office to fill application blanks.

YOUTH RETURNED TO INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

Clarence Holt, 17, of 500 Evans road, caught here Monday night was returned to the Lancaster Boys' Industrial school yesterday afternoon, where he made his escape a week ago Monday night.

Holt was arrested by police at a friend's house at 771 Gill avenue after the house had been surrounded. He was found hiding in the basement.

Officials said the youth's term probably will be extended a year because of his escape. He would have been eligible for parole in about ten weeks, after serving more than 11 months.
